The Foundation for Research on Blood Diseases in Malmö

Name	The Foundation for Research on Blood Diseases in Malmö
Purpose	The purpose of the foundation is to promote scientific medical research within research into blood diseases at the hematology section, Center Medicine, Malmö General Hospital. The purpose can be met, among other things, by issuing grants, scholarships or other compensation intended to cover costs for research activities, study and congress trips, acquisition of literature or scientific equipment. Grants may also be issued to invited guest researchers and lecturers. Contributions may also be considered for the publication of scientific documents or other publications within the aforementioned research area. In order to satisfy the foundation's purposes, after management and other incurred costs have been paid, both the return on the foundation's assets and the capital itself may be used, to the extent that the foundation's board so decides. The board shall be free to, to the extent deemed appropriate, gradually capitalize funds that have flowed into the foundation, such as donations, contributions, gifts, interest or other returns. If a donation or contribution to the foundation is accompanied by special conditions as regards the disposition of donated funds, these conditions shall apply regardless of what is stipulated above.
